

Da‘wah Principles and Challenges Number

Da‘wah Principles and Challenges is the focus of vol. 3, nos. 2–3 of the quarterly Insights. This special issue includes five refereed articles which explore the challenges which Islamic Da‘wah faces in the contemporary times and benefitting from the insights of various classical and contemporary Islamic scholars attempt to seek their solutions in the light of Da‘wah Principles enunciated in the Qur‘ān and Sunnah of the Prophet Muḥammad (peace be on him); Reflections of the two Western Muslims bring to fore the vital role that Islam can play in the remedy of maladies of the West; a thought provoking article of an Ottoman Premier is Archived, for its persistent relevance, which examines the mindset of the Muslim elite and suggests necessary steps for Reform of the Muslim Society. An Obituary paying tribute to a renowned academician and former Director General of Da‘wah Academy, late Dr Mahmood Ahmad Ghazi, and academic reviews on two relevant books are also published in this special number spanning over 284 pages. It makes a must read for students, researchers, academicians, policymakers and all those who are interested in the field of Da‘wah as well as the challenges facing the Muslim Ummah as a whole and the Da‘wah work in particular.
